

Brad Worthley Bio

Brad Worthley is an accomplished business consultant with over 45 years of management experience. He is also an internationally acclaimed leadership, customer service and motivational expert who has trained hundreds of thousands of people throughout the world since 1991. He has authored four books and produced numerous training videos and audio programs with experts such as Zig Ziglar, Jim Rohn, Brian Tracy, John Maxwell and others.

His client list contains some of the largest and most prestigious organizations in the world from a diverse range of industries, including more than 70 Native American Tribes and their enterprises. He is passionate about helping organizations establish and sustain strong service cultures: a place where employees love to come to work and customers love to do business.